2018 SEASON SUMMARY

2018 Sandburg Cross Country Team—

I would like to thank you all for such an amazing journey in 2018. Graduating a national champion and several great leaders is a challenge to a program. But we embraced the challenge of taking over the lead of a program with high standards and expectations. Yes, the final image of the 2017 cross country season was a Sandburg runner breaking the finish line as a National Champion...a finish line being held by a Sandburg National Champion. That's high expectations. And we took them on with our hearts and souls.

While we didn't achieve our lofty goals this season, we were always in this pursuit for a reason: we were in the process of becoming. I do not merely say this because we fell a little short this season. This is a direct quote from our state championship season summary: "As much as we achieved this year this season has been about becoming, not about achieving. The achievement is what you've decided to become as a person. The process of the season was the process of becoming." Sounds familiar? It's because I say it every year, no matter the outcome. And the people who have "become" and continue to "become" is impressive. You are caring, decent, passionate, hard working, determined people. You are powerful.

Of course, our state meet performance left us with a bad feeling. But this is part of the risk of trying. When you are courageous, you will get hurt at various times. That's the nature of courage. That's part of why we do this—it is the uncertainty that makes it appealing and worth pursuing. And this is where your love comes in. Only when pain exceeds purpose is it not worth pursuing anymore. But when you love something or someone, your purpose always exceeds the pain. And this is my hope for us: to continue to invest...even though we will get hurt again. To continue to believe...if though there will be doubts. To continue to bring our love to our teammates and the Sandburg Cross Country Program...because our purpose is far greater than any pain. These are values to bring to our lives that go far beyond running and racing; these are values far beyond winning trophies. So as we put to rest the 2018 season, we do so with the knowledge that we will rise again.

Thank you for an amazing journey.

78, sunny, humid, damp/some mud

COACH'S COMMENTS:

As we talked about on Friday, as we talked about all summer long, what we hoped to see most on Saturday was:
1. People taking care of each other 2. Taking risks and being bold. Taking care of each other means a lot of different things: getting to know each other, making sure we are on the right path, encouragement, a kick in the butt/honest feedback, and more. Taking risks does not mean the same thing as being stupid. It often means doing something you're a little afraid of doing. Believing in yourself and a positive outcome in a way that you haven't done before. One thing for sure, this season, we are not going to be afraid to do things we're afraid of.

From the outset of the day, we saw people taking care of each other. Teams were in unison. Whole Lotta Walter White was a great example of this—guys were in white all week and they were together. They were ready to consume the competition. Adam's Apple stepped out to be bold by getting our new principal, Ms. Tyrell, out to the meet. That's great stuff. Their recruitment of Grant Giblin—even though there were two Giblins on two other teams—turned out to be a game changer as well. The sketch artist for Cort for "Where's Cort Copper" was probably my favorite specific piece of the color wars theatrics. And the Sak of Potatoes were all on board and served some great food. Molasses turned out not to be all that slow—taking second place...but a talking booth that didn't have our biggest talker on the team: Connor Devlin!?! Let's remember the power of our enthusiasm. This can—and should—translate to the rest of our season. Choose enthusiasm. Choose to care.

After the color wars fun, it was time to engage in a race I anticipate for months. I have set up this course on an early Saturday morning in August every year for a decade and a half. It is usually check in time after a summer of training. We saw some people stepping out to be bold right away. It was an aggressive opening and soon after, Griff Lehnhardt decided to go ahead and take the lead. Why not? This is what we are there to do. You cannot have a breakthrough by running safe. Last year called I quoted from a book called Peak: Secrets from the New Science of Expertise, by Anders Ericsson. Griff is a perfect example of living this concept: "The reason that most people don't possess these extraordinary physical capabilities isn't because they don't have the capacity for them, but rather because they're satisfied to live in the comfortable rut of homeostasis and never do the work that is required to get out of it. They love in the world of 'good enough.'" Let's make sure we never allow ourselves to dwell in the world of good enough. Yes, it's usually not an issue of physical capability, rather it's an issue of self-imposed limitations. In speaking of this concept, Ahmed Alhayek is a perfect example of this as well. I have been talking for a while about how impressed I am with Ahmed. The thing that I observed right away with Ahmed is his relationship with practice. We all have a relationship with practice—how we feel about it, how attentive we are toward it, how intense we are as we go about sometimes mundane tasks. I noticed Ahmed last year. While he was an average runner, he had an elite relationship with practice. I've been around long enough to know that that is what matters far more than a natural gift. Sure enough, a year later, Ahmed has emerged as one of our best runners already. This is not going to stop as long as his relationship with practice continues to be elite. He has dropped over three minutes in a single year and he is just getting warmed up. Grant Giblin continues to be so impressive. He's already one of our best runners and competes like a champion. It's going to be fun to watch him. Another guy who stuck out was Jeffrey Spaargaren who came into the season this year much more prepared than last year and it showed in his racing (nearly two minutes faster from junior to senior year!). It shows what a summer of commitment does for you in this sport. The freshmen starting pouring in and they have a solid group of guys who can work to be great. Brock Rice fought his way back in the race to lead our freshmen. Sean Marquardt was off on this day but hung in there and Declan Tunney had one of the races of the day. I always say that anyone who break 20:00 as freshman is super impressive in this race. Declan, just out for two weeks now, looks to have a lot of promise for this team. I'm excited he's out. Jackson Fornek was right behind him, also under 20:00. I've been impressed with him. Owen Harty also right behind Jackson, then the Durkins. This group can do some damage and it will be fun to race the freshmen race next weekend at the Lyons Invitational.

Overall, I thought our F/S group was super strong with 8 of our first 20 runners being sophomores followed by a strong group of freshmen starting in the 19s. Our varsity has the potential to be a trophy team for sure. I see four guys under 15:00 right now. We need to bridge the gap from 4 to 5 and then we go from NXR to NXN. It's really exciting. No one will see us coming. We're going to rattle some cages.

78, calm, beautiful

COACH'S COMMENTS: What a great sight to see the Sandburg uniforms back in actions after a three month layoff. When you throw that jersey on you are representing a great tradition with a lot of people behind you. Our F/S guys got after it right away and blitzed to the front line. Ismail Tineh, Ahmed Alhayek, Jacob Coleman and Tommy Sieczkowski were going at it right away. Coleman was clearly on his way to a great race but tweaked his hamstring late in the race. He had clearly taken a big risk and it was about to pay off. It will pay off before this season is over. Meanwhile, Tineh was rolling out front in an impressive solo effort. Alhayek was equally impressive, but had a different battle at hand: he had to battle back against two guys. Ahmed's impressive toughness showcased itself once again: he managed to focus on the two runners and rally an effort to make a move. Once in front of them, he stayed on the gas to disallow them back into the race. Tough move. Indy Hauter was also looking strong and tough and is clearly a great sophomore level runner for us. Sean Marquardt had a big comeback race after Saturday's struggle. The second half of Marquardt's race was phenomenal. Every time I saw him, he was moving up in position, never settling. Colin Pearson had another great race and is much improved from last year. He's off to a great start this season. In the varsity race, he had four guys up front again. Nico Calderon seemed like he was getting dropped but rallied back and didn't allow the gap to grow at all. It's that kind of non-stop competing until it's over that makes all the difference. Griffin Lehnhardt turned in a great performance, going about it a bit differently than Saturday, which is exactly what we should be doing right now: taking risks in difference ways and developing multiple tools. Griffin kept grinding and passing. If we can bridge that gap to our #4 a little more, we're in good shape. Meanwhile, our first four need to keep those front runners much closer. No one should be putting that kind of gap on us. Diego Hernandez looked good in this one—I couldn't help but wonder how good he would be with a full summer of training. Overall, I feel like both levels are in a good spot: we have some good things happening, but we are going to need to work to get better. The wonderful thing about this is that the season is in our own hands. We have control over our destiny.

SANDBURG
CROSS COUNTRY

NEWS AND NOTES

BOLD RUNNERS OF THE WEEK: Ahmed Alhayek, Indy Hauter, Jonathan Slack

Reavis Invitational

Saturday, Sept. 8, 2018

Mid 60s. windy, overcast, soft course

COACH'S COMMENTS:

After being forced to wait another week for our first invitational, we were ready to roll. It was a joy to see the focus and competitiveness of our group as we headed into Reavis.

Our F/S group was eager to get our invitational season started. They looked tough and together all throughout the day. They were clearly building success. This is a key performance indicator for me. We talk a lot about the process of building success. It doesn't just show up. You need to build victory. 3:00 Fridays, we start the process of small wins until we reach success Saturday morning and early afternoon. The F/S crew exemplified this really well. The seven guys were cohesive and were attentive to detail. They were feeding off of each other's positive mentality and no excuses narrative. Ahmed Alhayek came into the meet sick. He didn't mention it to me. I was detecting that something was off and asked Ahmed about it, but he didn't reveal anything. Despite his illness, Ahmed committed to the big effort right from the gun. What do I mean by "committed to the big effort"? When you establish a hard effort and fast pace, and you display a mentality that the hard effort and pace is not just a fleeting thing, you are committing to the big effort. If you aren't ready to do that, you are wasting your time and your team's time. Nothing good comes from that. After a solid opening that established himself at the front, Ahmed made a big move after the mile that separated him for the remainder of the race. What's so great about this is that Ahmed put this effort in at the most difficult spot of the race. So here is a guy who is feeling less than 100% who decides to make the most difficult part of the race more difficult. Yes. Thank you, Ahmed. That is inspiring. That's why I get up early on a Saturday and get on a school bus and go to a cross country meet. Behind Ahmed, Tommy Siczkowski had enabled a small gap to form after the mile. The question was, how would Tommy respond? He managed some impressive coping strategies. He forced himself to stay on the razor's edge. He fought as hard as if he was leading the race. Ahmed's gap did not change. He was as motivated as the guy in the lead. What an impressive mentality. Sean Marquardt, in his first invitational of his high school career, showed phenomenal composure as he continually chipped away at competitors and moved from 12th to 6th place. He showed a lot of emotional and physical strength. Indy Hauter was one of my favorite parts of the day as he went all in 1.5 miles into the race and took a big risk at a difficult portion of the race course. This move ignited his teammates and got them moving. I love that. We are not running together to make each other comfortable; we are running together to make sure we don't get comfortable. This is exactly what Indy did at a point in the race that would have been easy to settle. The varsity got their turn next and picked up right where the competitive F/S left off. We went straight to the front and took control and then continually competed among each other. A perfect score is the least of my excitement in this race. Our low split off of the Gibs conveys the sense of competitiveness that was going on out there. You don't produce a low split from 1 to 5 like that unless everyone is fighting. Now...we need to take that same level of confidence and relentless effort to a more challenging competitive environment. Will we show that kind of bold running in the face of 500 other runners? I sure hope so. Ismail Tineh continues to ascend and was simply devouring the hill. Rodriuez, Lehnhardt and Tineh all ran strong races—we just need to close better. We gave away a lot of time in the final 400. Ian McGrath was also a big highlight, stepping up and showing he knows how to be a competitor. Kyle Mathas had a big day as well. He looked strong and tough out there. I was also really impressed with our freshmen in this race. Oliver Durkin turned in a great performance that would have been right with our F/S group in the sophomore level race. We had four freshmen place in the top 14 in the Open: Durkin, Rice, Harty and Fornek. That's phenomenal, racing against juniors and seniors. We talked Friday about seeing it through and bringing certainty to your effort in the face of stuff that tells you to back down, whether that be expectations, racing a senior when you're a freshman, the difficulty of the effort and asking yourself if you can keep pushing and more. Those freshmen showed that they weren't intimidated. This was a great first invitational and now we take our team to a big test in Peoria. This is why we do it. We aim to continually challenge ourselves and this next Saturday will be a great one. I don't want to see a "response to the challenge." I don't want response—I want us to take action, not form a response. Others will need to respond to our boldness.

Those who have a 'why' to love can bear with almost any 'how'.—Victor Frankl

TIDBITS:

- ✓ Saturday is the Peoria Notre Dame Inv. Travel time is approx. 2.5 hours. We will also be spending a little time on state meet strategy after the race, so we will not be getting back until early evening (more precise timeline is forthcoming). We can only take 50 of our 65 guys due to bus restrictions.
- ✓ Great job with the finish line—you guys were a great sight at the finish chute.

WHAT'S NEXT: Goals for Peoria: Some of the best runners in the state are there. Tear em up and send them home. PR's for everyone. Sub 16:30 Club for F/S and Sub 15:30 Club for juniors/seniors.

NEWS AND NOTES

RUNNERS OF THE WEEK: Jackson Fornek, Sam Rodriguez, Not So Big Ben Walter

Peoria Notre Dame Invitational

Saturday, Sept.15, 2018

84 degrees and sunny

COACH'S COMMENTS:

We talked on Friday—and really, all summer—about taking some big risks, being ready for a big effort, and making each other better by challenging one another. We had a variety of responses to the opportunity of Peoria Notre Dame Invitational. Some of us were prepared for the big effort, some of us ran scared of the effort. Detweiller Park gives us a stage to utilize data from 15 years of observation of that course. It gives us powerful feedback. Starting with the varsity race, we had the Ben Giblin and Sammy take us out in a smart, aggressive way. We were far from over our heads at this point. 2:18 is a fast split, but considering it's down hill and the opening 800 in a field of 500, that is an aggressive but not overly aggressive opening. Nico Calderon for some reason placed himself behind those two and clearly had it in his head to allow them to open up for us and then maybe he'd pick them off throughout the race. Nico looked comfortable at 800. Indeed, he was slower than his opening from PND a year ago and it was 88 degrees in 2017. Coach Jonaitis turned to me after the 800 and said, "What is Nico thinking?" I said he'd be okay. It wasn't a good opening, but he had a reasonable position that he could use the next few minutes of racing to connect with the Giblins and Sammy. Unfortunately, I didn't see that. Following behind, Griffin Lehnhardt was in a good position to do some damage as our fifth; he was going it alone and was ready to do battle with the field. Following him, inexplicably, Connor Devlin and Ismail Tineh had taken themselves out of the race and had body language that they weren't going to compete today. Amazingly, a year after competing in the open race, Devlin went through 800 almost 10 seconds slower and Ismail hit the same split he did as a freshman. Except it is a year later and we were having the honor of competing for Sandburg varsity. We all talked a big game about having many number one runners on the team but our actions are not following through. The exact things we talked about on Friday were exactly the mistakes we were making as a team. Meanwhile, the Giblins kept battling and Sammy was sticking his nose in the top 25 as well. What I loved about Sam Rodriguez was that a week after getting dropped by a fairly big margin at Reavis, Sammy didn't hesitate to go right to the front again. He demonstrates an absolute key for everyone's season: there will be some down moments along the way. You can use these moments to fuel your doubt. It can be a bad workout, a bad week, a bad race, or stupid distractions that draw your focus away from your goal. You can manage these and realize that it's part of the journey or you can use these as excuses or reasons to doubt yourself. We need to manage the downs of the journey in a way that doesn't diminish your confidence. Continue to have faith. Sammy did just that this week.

Meanwhile, I was so looking forward to the sophomore race. It turned out in the end to be super competitive this year. That's the fastest I've ever seen a freshman run that race (15:24). York and Neuqua Valley and WWS were loaded. It was a tough race, but I expected us to handle it a little better. We were out pretty strong but then just went into survival. I'm not sure if we expected it to be easier than it turned out and the tough competition gave us some negative feedback. We weren't quite ready for it and that is my fault. We had some solid improvements on last year's times from several guys in this race and Sean Marquardt continues to be impressive.

In the open race, Ben Walter definitely had one of the most inspiring runs of the day. He went for the win and was leading that race for 2.5 miles and faded a little to grab 3rd but was one of our top times of the day simply because he decided to be confident and compete hard for three miles. Take care of the process of competing like Ben Walter did and you'll be rewarded. On Friday he said he felt powerful and was going to run well. His actions followed through with that mentality and he never let himself off the hook or downplayed expectations. Then throughout the three miles, he simply kept competing. Sometimes we stop competing in the middle of a race. We need to be on top of our mentalities all throughout and keep focusing on what you can do to other competitors, not the other way around. Eddie Slack looks to be improving in health and has some issues solved. I could see a difference already in the way he looked. I know he'll continue to get stronger. Jackson Fornek was possibly the highlight of the day for me. I just loved his attitude on Saturday and the way he fought. He was trying to do something he'd never done before and that is exactly what we should be doing with our races. That's the whole point. He was so tough out there. It was inspiring to watch him. We also had some great improvements from Colin Pearson and Noah White: about two minutes a guy better than last year. That's the name of the game. Our open runners finished 3rd to two teams who had more runners in the open race than we have on our entire team.

So we had some ups and downs. I did not have us ready to roll on Saturday and for that, I apologize. I will make sure we are ready in two weeks when we hit some big challenges. But we had some positives: Sammy was one. The Giblins rolling with big PRs and getting into the top 25 was another. They've positioned themselves well to be well under 15 come November. Griffin was battling the entire race and took on the position of a varsity scorer very seriously. The data I gave you on Friday turned out to be as accurate of a predictor as you can get. You can trust we do our homework to give you as clear of a task as possible. Once you know what the task is, then you are more prepared to execute. We have a clear picture of our task. We are in the trophy hunt. St. Charles East will be ranked 2nd in state this week and deservedly so. Neuqua Valley will be ranked 3rd. Those teams are within reach and we have a ton of room for improvement. If we choose to run down a trophy, we will do it. But it will take exactly what I've been describing since June. We need to embrace risk taking, we need to be cage rattlers, we need to be ready for the big effort, and we need to be bold. If we aren't ready to do that in two weeks, we should not take another trip down to Peoria. We are wasting our time. If we choose to be bold, then I guarantee we will be infinitely more successful than we were on Saturday. The biggest takeaway from this is what I describe as the rejection of the high school world narrative. You are bombarded with all sorts of limitations of expectations. What is worthy of attention. What toughness looks like. What is popular or acceptable. All of these expectations limit you. We need to decide how to think, not allow someone else to decide for us. That's why I'm out at practice: to be a part of a process of teenagers forming identities in which they own their story. Why would we avoid talking to someone or doing something that others judge? Why might we not raise our hand in class and take a risk? Why might we choose to sit in the exact same seat at lunch for nine months even though there are no assigned seats at lunch? It's safe. It's comfortable. No fear of rejection or judgment or failure. When you start a race slow, when you assume someone or some team is better than you, when you start thinking of yourself as someone "with no kick" or "an 800 runner, not an XC runner" or someone who "can't be a varsity runner" or any of these types of thoughts...all of them...they are self-imposed limitations. But here's the lesson. You are guaranteed failure...or at least nothing new. So here is something to remember:

The biggest risk you can take is not taking a risk.

Not risking is the riskiest way to try to succeed.

NEWS AND NOTES

RUNNERS OF THE WEEK: Sean Marquardt, Ben Giblin, Ismail Tineh, Connor Devlin, Matt Sak, Jeffrey Spaargaren

Andrew/Peoria Central/St. Charles N Invitationals

Thurs. Sept 27 , Sat. Sept 29, 2018

Mid 60s sunny (Thurs), Mid 50s, calm, overcast (Sat)

COACH'S COMMENTS:

We entered the week with a focus on our pillars. We were determined to focus on being a great team, being bold, expressing gratitude and bringing love to what we do. These are the things we need to focus on. If we do, I am confident that the results will show. They certainly did last week.

At Andrew, we kicked things off with one of my favorite races of the year: the freshman race. It gives our guys a chance to race like champions. Sean Marquardt and Jackson Fornek blasted out to the front. Jackson paid the price later on, but I'd rather have that race than a safe one any day of the week. We can adjust race strategy very easily over the next four years...but if you're not willing to be bold, then it's pretty difficult to fix. Meanwhile, Marquardt was caught by a few runners after the mile and I saw a phenomenal response: he fought right back and opened up another small gap. It was just a tough response. I was really impressed with that kind of competitive mindset. Marquardt has all the makings of an all-time great. Crossing the finish line in St. Charles, Sean's first comment was, "that was fun!" Yes it was. And bringing that kind of joy to racing hard is exactly what it takes to be great. Brock Rice seemed to find his confidence throughout this race as well. He kept moving up and finished strong. It's time to take that confidence and move forward with it. I've been really excited about Owen Harty's season as well: a strong 17th place finish and another solid performance in St. Charles as well. He quietly works hard, races tough and is progressing really well. Justin Small seemed to have a bit of a breakthrough as well. He just looked stronger and fitter than ever before. Some weeks of training after missing the summer are starting to show his ability. I was also excited to see Oamri Rogers-Carney get after it in a way that he hasn't to this point. He really seemed to be competing at a new level of desire. The sophomores followed that up with a victory at the Andrew meet to solidify the overall championship. Noah White made a strong, bold move in this race to try to bridge the gap up to Molloy and Chaudhry. Two Lockport guys landed right in front of Ahmed and Tommy...SWSC in less than two weeks! I'll say no more.

So we had some good energy heading into our two Saturday invitationals. I love this weekend because we are ready to race fast after some good training, the weather usually is good and it's our last chance to really risk big and do something before SWSC. In Peoria, I was getting immediate video and text updates on the races as they progressed. Starting off with the sophomores, the update that Ahmed Alhayek, Tommy Siczkowski and Sean Marquardt were all battling in the top 10/top 20 got the group in Peoria pumped up. That is a high powered F/S race, and those guys were out there up front. Ahmed has proven something I believe: that practicing the right way reveals a champion well before they race like a champion. I told Ahmed last spring that if he continued to practice the way he was that over four years he'd find his way to the front of the state and only a handful of runners will be left standing. He is showing that to be his trajectory this season. Michael Molloy looked strong and seems to be getting better every week. Declan Tunney continues to battle. He's got such a great attitude. In speaking of that, I love Tim Kircher's attitude. He's always positive, always engaged, and has a lot of heart. And how about Jackson following up his bold race on Thursday with another strong race, but also a bold Homecoming proposal? I really liked what I heard and saw from this F/S group in St. Charles. It was the best performance we've had there in a number of years and it was done with some of our great values. Next the varsity went to the line to battle against the top 2 ranked teams in state. The last few years we've sent a group to St. Charles and often they have been intimidated and raced tentatively. Last year, we finished 15th out of 20 and our first runner placed 60th. The meet only got more competitive this year with the top two ranked teams in state. So I wasn't sure what we would get from this race, but I was hopeful we were going to be bold. Much of this group has shown character throughout their years at Sandburg, so I was feeling like something good might happen. Connor Devlin wanted to get up near the front and then fight his way through the second half and beat some St. Charles runners. He did just that. When I shared the word that Devlin had beaten SCE's 6/7 runner, we knew we were ready to roll in Peoria. This is an important lesson: when we are bold and confident, it gets contagious. When we are lukewarm or negative, that is also contagious. What was growing contagious on Saturday is exactly what we want as part of our oxygen. And it wasn't just Devlin, Alex Miller went right to the front of the race. This was a hyper competitive race with some of the best in state. Alex went right after them. I love that. Ian McGrath and TJ Cosler also hammering in the 40s. It was looking good. Jeffrey Spaargaren rolling to a huge PR right behind Miller...it was awesome racing with true courage. The byproduct was a strong 6th place finish in a quality varsity meet. One of the most impressive things coming from our open race was Cameron Weigel who broke 30:00 for the first time ever, dropping over two minutes from Reavis. His effort has been really inspiring.

In Peoria, we had seven guys really focused and ready to roll. The cool temps and lack of wind clearly indicated the conditions were ripe for fast racing. The performances in St. Charles reminded us that we were physically prepared. I was really confident heading in this race that we would race much better than two weeks ago. While doing strides, someone said, "Lyons is in black today." Everyone looked over confidently. We were ready to compete. I knew we weren't there to just run a time trial. We were there to beat people. The gun went off and Will Giblin blasted to the front, running slightly too fast, but it got our team out there. We were in great position through 800—the first segment of racing at Detweiller Park. The race didn't relax much heading toward the mile and we were off and rolling. Guys were hitting splits and in strong positions. We knew we were running faster than we ever had before. It was then time to be tough. Ben Giblin was so impressive. He was 20th place at 1.75 and running fast. Everyone in front of him was running fast, too, obviously. Ben picked them off and fought his way up to 14th place. The byproduct of competing was a fast time: 14:50. This puts Ben tied for 14th all time in Sandburg history...and that is quite a list. It also puts him faster than the Torpys' best junior times and many others. What I love about the Gibs is that they handle these racing situations like it's no big deal. Always smiling, they are paradoxically calm and motivated. Once again, it's a reminder that we need to bring joy and love to what we do. Sammy Rodriguez and Nico Calderon weren't far behind, putting fear into our competition's coaches. We had quite a tight group. We just needed our fifth right there. Ismail Tineh had a disappointing result two weeks ago and was hesitant to go and commit to racing early. I could tell by his demeanor and attitude that there was no way that was going to happen again. He was through 800 almost :10 faster this time around and had the look of someone who was going to go compete. He was aware that we needed a 5th man to step up and was consciously trying to fulfill that role for his team. His 15:25 ranks 10th all time for F/S. It was a great performance after a disappointing one a few weeks ago. Ben Walter was granted a varsity opportunity after earning it at PND. What I hoped for was a race that reflected his desire to help the team, not just "make the top 7". That goal doesn't actually help our team. He, like Ismail, showed real desire to get those fifth man point lower. Once again, the act of competing well results in a byproduct of a time you are proud of. Going for the time and focusing on that typically doesn't bring your best performance. Ben dropped 1:17 from last year when he raced Detweiller. It's been an impressive run for Ben Walter, but his mentality on Saturday demonstrated that he's not satisfied with merely "getting in the race." He wants to do something. He's on a mission. Chris Pearson led the way for us in this race, determined to bet his brother's time. Kyle Mathas has been really dedicated this season and he dropped his PR into the 17s and is racing well. Matt Sak has been such a huge part of our team's effort this year and this week was a perfect demonstration of what he brings to our team.

It was a busy week with Homecoming, an invite on Thursday and a split squad on Saturday. We needed to be focused and ready in order to take advantage of the opportunities. Our team was in different places at different times doing different things all throughout the week, yet I felt a sense of a unified vision. We were on a unified mission. That is an accomplishment. That makes me excited about the final weeks of our season. This week, we officially turn the calendar to October. It's Championship Season. We have what it takes: championship character.

High 40's, calm, mostly sunny

COACH'S COMMENTS:

What a perfect way to conclude our regular season racing and begin our championship season racing all in one day. The weather set the scene for a beautiful cross country day and we came through winning all three races and feeling the support and enthusiasm of the entire team and families.

Entering the F/S SWSC championship, we knew that we had a rock star group. I really enjoy watching those seven guys compete. They never quit. They are super reliable. You always know you are going to get their best. That is fun to watch. We went right to the front to take control of the race. Michael Molloy was out hammering. The rest of the boys were in position. It didn't take long for Ismail Tineh and Griffin Lehnhardt to emerge to the front line and form a gap. I loved that they didn't just settle in together in the first two spots. Griff went ahead and took the lead. Then Ismail fought right back to regain the lead. It is exactly what we should be doing with each other—challenging one another. Meanwhile, Ahmed Alhayek was embroiled in a one-on-one slug fest with the kid from Lockport. Ahmed knew this was going to be a fight—we issued the challenge of the first two Lockport kids who beat him at Andrew two weeks ago. Yes, two weeks ago the 1-2 from Lockport beat Ahmed. But, as I've been saying for a year, he out-practices everyone and week-by-week he continues to pass people and by the end of his senior year, only a few people in the entire state will be left standing. Ahmed's race was truly inspiring. He had to drag this kid around the course for 3 miles, constantly fighting him off and going back and forth. As he rolled down the hill with 400 to go, Ahmed had a single step on him. I couldn't see the finish but I was betting on Ahmed. He simply cares more. When I jogged to the finish, that was the first question I asked—how did it shake out with Ahmed and the Lockport kid? To no surprise, I heard Ahmed won the battle to complete a 1-2-3 finish for us. Ismail Tineh joins some truly legendary company to become SWSC F/S Champion. Our first three finishers-- Tineh, Lehnhardt and Alhayek--ran varsity-caliber performances. Behind them, we had some tough guys racing hard. Tommy Sieczkowski, who has been a tremendous leader and example for our F/S crew this year, locked down the title with a 7th place finish, just fighting the whole way, including racing away from a near competitor in the final 200 meters. Tommy is someone who makes this team better in so many ways. Sean Marquardt did what he's been doing all year long and raced with the composure of a veteran. When I looked at the group of F/S guys prior to the race, I saw Indy Hauter and thought to myself: "That's a great team right there. When you got a guy like that in the thick of our pack who is always being bold and tough, then the group culture is bold and tough." If you just have that from a few front runners and you are constantly begging the others to be bold and tough, then the culture of the group is not strong. And when I looked at Indy, I saw the character of a championship group. I hope this group works together with that character over the next two years. Special things can happen if we go all in and develop that trust in one another that grows when you train year round in all sorts of conditions and go to battle together. Potential is nothing if there isn't follow through. Potential becomes disappointment without action. I am confident this group—and several other F/S guys from the open race—will go all in together and the next few years are going to be legendary.

In the varsity race, we definitely did not put together our best effort of the season. We were doing well in the first mile: I saw the four horsemen commit to competing with the three strong runners from the SWSC, I saw Connor Devlin go and run down our first four, I saw Ian McGrath having poise in this varsity race and commit to a big performance early on. After the mile, we had a mixed bag. Will Giblin was just so tough. The Giblins never quit. Ben Walter responded mid race and did some passing for us to get into scoring position. Ian McGrath was so tough in this race. He's had a great season and has fought his way onto the varsity lineup. The rest of our group kind of survived or floated backwards. We will need to be more stubborn in the coming weeks. I know we will be.

Finally, I have to say that the moment that got me emotional was watching the final 400 of the open race. The SWSC open race is one of my favorite races of the entire season. In that final 400, I saw guys taking flight. There was a moment when I saw Brock, then Kyle Mathas, both Pearsons, Declan Tunney, Oliver Durkin, and Sean Pittacora all rolling out---hammering by people and fighting with all they're worth to finish out the race. We were passing with purpose. I had this great visual of the wrap around finish of guys taking flight, whether it was the guys listed above in the final 150 or guys like Jackson Fornek, who had pushed the pace early or John Cunningham who had rallied from a rough opening to his senior year making the final 180 turn. It was the sight of a team that had purpose and passion. I just loved it. I saw the character of Jonathon Vales who was sick earlier in the week and had quite a scare at practice. Before he left, he asked, "I can still race Saturday, right?" And race he did, dropping a minute off his PR for the third consecutive race. I saw the character of Alex Miller who drove out to Senior Strides less than 24 hours after surgery, clearly in pain, to do what? Cheer on his senior teammates as they did their final strideouts. Love wins. I saw the character of Cameron Weigel, who has cut 8 minutes off his time from Reavis. He works his butt off every day, often going it solo. It's been truly inspiring to watch him on a daily basis for the past two months.

I encourage everyone to take a look at our Pre-SWSC times and our SWSC times. What amazing improvement. Remember that Pre-SWSC was a really nice day, so this was not just a matter of improved conditions. This is the result of commitment and determination. This is the lesson that this sport teaches us. We are growing every day. And our goal is not to become strong runners. It's to become strong people. The race results are a byproduct of this process. Thank you for inspiring me every day with your character. I asked you to return to where we began and express who you've become. You did that clearly: you are champions.

NEWS AND NOTES

Runner of the Week: Griffin Lehnhardt, Tommy Sieczkowski

IHSA Regional @Midlothian Meadows

Saturday, Oct. 20, 2018

High 40s/low 50s, very windy, mostly sunny

COACH'S COMMENTS:

We entered the IHSA Regional with the desire to challenge ourselves. We are ever focused on improving and we always seek challenges. The key to our growth lies in challenging comfort. So we went with a group of excited guys who wanted to race and challenge themselves on Saturday. We were a little disjointed with our race plan and that is my fault. Despite the wind, from the outset, we were blitzing to the front, completely unafraid of the competition. We talked about the "2nd lap" and the "2nd to last lap" on Friday. We would see where our initial boldness would take us over the next mile. Ismail Tineh went with two great runners through the 1200 but then let them go over the following 800 meters. It was a great initial commitment. He just needed to see it through. Griffin Lehnhardt was racing strong, shadowing 3rd place through 2 miles. Ahmed Alhayek continued his strong racing, always so reliable and tough. He doesn't make a big deal about it—he just goes out at grinds. Ian McGrath was racing strong in the chase pack, avoiding the initially overly fast pace and worked his way through. I just love Ian's attitude. He's had such a strong season and his work ethic and positive mentality is evident in everything he does. That character was present in this race and he kept working and was ever engaged. He took advantage of the opportunity to race in Regionals and worked until he was in our 4th position. Our guys raced tough and with excitement for the opportunity. We went for the win and fell a little short, but I was really proud of their attitudes. We were simply excited to race. This is exactly what we saw on Friday afternoon with our guys time trialing. It was phenomenal energy. Griffin Lehnhardt viewed the pressure of the race as a privilege. Tommy Sieczkowski was simply inspiring with his aggressiveness. TJ Cosler once again displayed relentless determination. Our young guys were enthusiastic and competitive. It's really exciting energy in that young group. I hope that never changes. In the meantime, they brought us tremendous energy and enthusiasm as we started our IHSA season.

We had some really, really positive things happen on Friday and Saturday and we also had some failings of our pillars of "Leading with Love" and "Out Teaming" people. The positives were clear with the energy and positive mindset of our racers on Friday and Saturday. We also needed more people to take ownership and leadership over what our team was trying to accomplish. The bottom line is this: decide how you want to define this team and this season through your actions over the next two weeks. We have an amazing opportunity ahead of ourselves and we will define who we are and what our purpose is over the next few weeks. Time to take ownership of that definition.

CROWD SUPPORT: Need to rally crowd support and organize!

TIDBITS: >> Buca Di Beppo on Friday, 6:00. $15/person. >> ALL 14 GUYS NEED TO BE READY TO RACE NEXT SATURDAY. THAT MEANS LITTLE THINGS (BRING UNIFORM/SPIKES) AND BIG THINGS (MENTALLY READY TO RIP AND STEP IN).

WHAT'S NEXT: IHSA Sectional at Midlothian Meadows. 11:00 race time.

"I was giving up. I would have given up—if a voice hadn't made itself heard in my heart. The voice said, "I will not die. I refuse it. I will make it through this nightmare. I will beat the odds, as great as they are. I have survived so far, miraculously. Now I will turn miracle in routine. The amazing will be seen every day. I will put in all the hard work necessary...I discovered at that moment that I have a fierce will to live...Some of us give up on life with only a resigned sigh. Others fight a little, then lose hope. Still others—and I am one of those—never give up. We fight and fight and fight. We fight no matter the cost of battle, the losses we take, the improbability of success. We fight to the very end. It's not a question of courage. It's something constitutional, an inability to let go..."

--Life of Pi, Yann Martel

COACH'S COMMENTS:

The race was a microcosm of who we are and who we can be this season. At the mile mark, we were a trophy team, potentially state champs. Then "things started going wrong," was the phrase I heard from Nico and others. This is very revealing to our mentality. It's a negative interpretation of what is going on in a race. Things didn't start to go wrong. You were just in a race. It's called racing. Competing. We aren't running a workout together, we are racing. We just folded. Ismail actually thought he did great in the end of the race. He didn't. He just looked at his teammates who folded far more than he did. We had four guys in the top 10 at the mile and all we needed to do was go hurt for it at that point. Plainfield South and Hinsdale Central both knew they were fighting for the final spot to state with 800 to go. Plainfield South picked up 11 spots (and their #1 was in 2nd, so that means their 2-5 picked up 11 passes in the final 800). Hinsdale Central picked up 23 spots in the final 800! They knew what was at stake and they went and hurt for it. We had given up at that point. The Giblins, who surprisingly didn't finish the way I always expect them to finish, and were actually passed in the final 800, put on :08 on Tineh, :10 on Calderon, :08 on Lehnhardt, :16 on Walter and :23 on Rodriguez. In 800 meters!

The race next week will not happen exactly as you envision it. There are so many variables and uncontrollables that your ultimate goals never play out movie style. The great thing about that is there is relief in that: let go of trying to desperately cling to the way you imagine it and be okay with it being uncertain. Control the controllables. But I would like to ask you this: are we really bold, are we really willing to love our team so much that we fight for them? Are we really willing to rattle cages and upset the status quo? Or do we just like to make t-shirts? We'll certainly find out this Saturday. Losers are the ones ready to lose. Be decisive and expect positive outcomes.

TIDBITS: >> Buca Di Beppo on Friday, Fan bus tba.

IHSA State Meet

Saturday, Nov 3, 2018

54 degrees, partly sunny, calm

Well, we definitely did not have a good day at state this year. We placed further back than we have in the last 10 years. It was the most disappointing state meet since we had such high goals this season and I really thought we had a good chance to achieve those goals. Yes, had we run :10 faster than PCI, we would have taken 2nd place. We made some mistakes for sure. The obvious one was our opening. I've never been to a state meet before and felt like the race was over in the first :45 seconds. That happened in this one. You can run from behind if you are prepared for it, but mostly I saw that we had a race plan and we were literally running the opposite of the race plan. That just indicated to me that we weren't ready to go. We talked about monitoring the field and making sure we were in the top 35-50 for our opening. Instead, we opened in dead last place. At the 800, we didn't have a single guy in the top 100 and had about 500 team points at that point. You can't place in the top 3 in these positions with that opening. The problem wasn't just the opening 800, but it was also what we did from 800 to mile. The pace slowed considerably and we were already behind, so I am a little confused by that response. We really didn't move up. This same thing occurred in 2014 when we were caught on the inside on the turn. We didn't have a guy in the top 100 at the 800, but they hammered from 800 to 1.5 and had taken over the lead with our first guy in 20th and a :10 split at that point. We didn't quite have that response this year. At the mile mark, we were in 23rd place with 467 points. From the mile to the 2 mile, we did some moving. We moved up 93 places from the mile to the 2 mile. Then we stopped moving. Ismail kept moving at this point and Will Giblin ran down five more people, but the rest of us lost positions. Even with Ismail and Will, we ended up losing five team points from the 2 mile to the 3 mile. Had we kept progressing we would have found our way to the top 8. I am guessing at this point we saw bad 2 mile splits and then stopped really fighting for positions. Regardless, I am at fault here. You were not prepared to run the race we hoped for and that is my fault. When you do everything I ask of you and it doesn't work out then I am to blame. As I said on Saturday, I will work my butt off to make sure that never happens again. There are some things to learn from this experience. 1. We can't be passive and expect our goals to come to us. We were passive from the first step of the race. It doesn't mean next year we go out in 2:00. It does mean that we need to be aggressive racers. 2. We don't have to build up state bigger than it is. All we had to do was be ourselves. So many teams ran poorly, even the state champs ran below average. All we had to do was be ourselves and be ready for a big effort. 3. It is really important to be adaptable. Our goals never work out exactly as we expect. We need to be ready to adapt to various situations. GPS. Part of the risk in trying is that you can fall short. That is something we all embrace from the start of practice in June. That's the beauty of it: it's an uncertainty. But we are far better off for having tried. We learn about ourselves, we challenge ourselves, we test our limits and we grow together as people. Thank you for this journey. You've inspired me so much. Now let's take that character and express it when we go compete at NXR. I want to see fearless hunger!
