NEWS AND NOTES

Time Trial—Midlothian Meadows

Saturday, August, 21, 2021

80s, calm, sunny, humid

COACH'S COMMENTS:

We accomplished what I hoped we would accomplish this past week: set the tone for the season by committing to a team dynamic and a competitive fire. We saw a lot of tremendous enthusiasm throughout the week and especially on race day Saturday morning. This enthusiasm fueled us and nourished our ability to be competitive. These two components are characteristics that we expect from every runner on the team. Everyone needs to be committed to contributing to the cohesion of the team through their energy and care. We do not want guys who show up and just take from the group. We want people adding a log to the fire. Additionally, we expect everyone to be committed to being a competitive athlete: actively focused on being resilient competitors who are committed to fighting to make our team better. When we go to meets, Sandburg cross country runners are known to be tough to beat, no matter what level you're competing for. We want to see that determination from everyone.

Both of these characteristics were present Saturday. It's a great way to jump start our season. As we continue through the season, we want this enthusiasm and determination to only grow and to be centered on our team's meaningful goals. Coach Tarjan provided a ton of feedback for our spirit competition, so I'll limit that here, but let's just sum it up that you guys were creative, energetic, cohesive and a ton of fun. I loved it! Finally, the race began. We knew all along that we'd have fire power up front. We had five guys blasting through the first mile, separating themselves from the group. This is an effective scoring position for us, but we also need to make sure no one is feeling like those five guys will take care of business while they can be content not worrying about scoring. To ensure that, we'll surely be shaking up our lineup to challenge guys. At the front, our first five were doing what we love to see: the push and pull that has made us great. Great teams have competitors that respond positively when teammates challenge them competitively. Weak teams have guys who don't like it when teammates challenge them. This is a defining characteristic of champions. Our first five displayed this champion mindset throughout the race. It's really important to note that these guys didn't just show up as good as they are. They worked for it. As freshmen: Brock Rice--19:20, Sean Marquardt--19:50, Declan Tunney--19:51 at Color Wars. Their four years of investment and determination have created their current level of racing. Brock took command of the race and stayed on the gas, and the best part was our following four kept attacking, unwilling to simply concede anything. That group displayed an impressive level of relentless racing. Meanwhile, Jonathan Vales had one of the races of the day. Where was he as a freshman at Color Wars? 25:50. You wouldn't expect a guy running 26 minutes for 3 miles would be a part of Sandburg's varsity but Vales showed what we are all about. Your starting point is irrelevant. Evan Deimling has been a huge addition to the team. He has been so focused on improving and bridging the gap. His mentality is extraordinary--he's unwilling to settle and he's so willing to work for it. With this mindset, he will be something special for our team this year. Following our varsity crew, we had three freshmen stand out. They've been rolling together at practice and illustrate already the power of cohesive, competitive training. Damian Martinez, Luke Atzman and Matt Coleman came in around the 20 minute marker. I hope those guys take a look at the three seniors I've already mentioned and where they were as freshmen. I hope they also see their example of what happens when you commit to the sport the way Brock, Declan and Sean have. These three have that same potential.

As we continue with the season, it will be easy for guys to settle into roles and start expecting certain people to beat them, and to start sleepwalking through practices. It's easy because in this sport everyone tries hard. You have to "work" to race three miles or complete a workout. So "trying hard" is actually a low expectation in this sport. We need to be even better than that standard and focus on breaking down our own limitations. Oftentimes, we have self-imposed limitations. We lower expectations or have a certain narrative in our heads about our abilities and what we are capable of. Our goal needs to be much much more than "Try hard." We want to eliminate self-imposed limitations, have no respect for them. We want to push our limits regularly and discover that we are capable of more than we already believe. This sport will continually give you an opportunity to discover a new greatness within yourself. To show courage, resiliency, determination, and relentlessness...it's a possibility every day. And even those words I just mentioned can be regularly redefined.

Guys—what we brought to the table at Midlothian Meadows to start our season will be our greatest weapon throughout the journey. Passion, excitement, fun, unity, team pride, competitive fire, and toughness. This is what we need to remember. Bring that joy, bring that energy, bring that fearless racing to every practice and every race this season and we'll be successful. So the strange colors are gone. 2020 is gone. It's blue and gold now. It's 2021 now. How are we going to define it?

RUNNERS OF THE WEEK: Sean Marquardt and Luke Atzman
Lyons Invitational
Saturday, Sept. 4, 2021
Starting low 60s, ending low 70s, partly cloudy

COACH'S COMMENTS:

Wow, was it great to be back to a full scale invitational on Saturday. Our goals for this meet were to risk and showcase pride in the Sandburg Cross Country program. The second of those goals needed to be acted on throughout the entire day. I was thrilled with the attention to the warm up process and everything that goes into race readiness. With four races stacked on top of each other, it was impressive how before each race when we went to the tent, each racing group was setting themselves up for success. I could see that we were "building victory." I use that term often because I believe that victory or success is built. It doesn't just show up and it is a building process that includes the day and week before, then the steps of race readiness from the moment we wake up to the warm up, starting line and of course throughout the race itself. We should create a feeling of momentum and building. Check off the boxes with small wins. We did this well on Saturday. In the first race of the day, I saw some of our other goal: risk taking. Jackson Fornek was aggressive early in the race and he looked like he believed he belonged there. Will Kuczyk meanwhile displayed his aggression more mid-race. Both got the team going early on and set the tone of competitiveness. Nick Charles seemed to be surging every time I saw him throughout the race, never settling. After the race, I went back to the tent to meet the varsity crew and said, "those guys raced with a ton of heart." The varsity group picked up right where the open runners left off. Our front runners followed the race plan effectively and moved into position to set up a successful race. Evan Deimling and Ibrahim Tineh jetted out a little too fast for their opening, but I am confident this was great experience and they'll put together a more complete race with a few more workouts. Ibrahim operated the entire race as our final scoring runner and really had to fight in the second half to hold down as low of a position as possible. Declan Tunney, Brock Rice, and Sean Marquardt were positioned near the leaders and looked strong and full of intent. Declan made the decision to bridge the gap between him and Neuman while Brock kept battling the next group. It made for an exciting finish. Marquardt fought all the way to the finish to lock down a really strong 3rd position scorer for us. Trent Anderspn hung in there as well. One of the keys to success for this group will be the response to when a teammate challenges them competitively. As I said last week, great teams have guys who are energized when they are challenged competitively, mediocre teams have runners who essentially only find their confidence through positioning on the team. If they are in front of a certain guy, the feedback loop in their head gives them confidence and momentum. But great teams have guys who get that same sense of positive feedback when a teammate challenges them...because, of course, the success of the team is what is most motivating. Our freshmen stepped to the line, and a great example of what I just described is the three headed monster of Luke Atzman-Damian Martinez-Matt Coleman. These guys feed off each other really well. I love their energy and competitiveness. Luke has stepped in and been really reliable for our squad. He has a bright future in this sport. James Coppinger and Connor Wholley likewise race effectively together and pushed and pulled each other through the race. Our freshmen as a whole have tremendous energy and they bring such a valuable weapon to the team when they share this mentality on a daily basis. Finally, while it's really disappointing that we didn't have a scoring team on the sophomore level, and that is something we are going to have to work hard to fix this off season, we did have four guys represent the team with pride. Grant Giblin had the opportunity to race from the front and push himself without feedback from a pack. With the temperature going up and the sun coming out, it was even more challenging to push solo late in the race but Gibs put together a solid effort. Overall, we showed up and had a great day of showcasing our team and our mentalities. This year more than ever, character will determine our fate. If Saturday is any indication, we are going to have a special season ahead of us.

NEWS AND NOTES

RUNNERS OF THE WEEK: Zee Ebert, Jack Easterhouse
Reavis Invitational
Saturday, Sept. 11, 2021
80s. calm, sunny

COACH'S COMMENTS:

We went into the Reavis Invitational with the desire to become a better team. We aren't interested in maintaining or staying where we are. We enter every day—from practices to race days—with the focus on becoming a stronger team and a stronger version of ourselves. Our freshmen group personifies this mentality. I am so excited about this freshmen group. We have talked about the three headed monster up front and the pairing of Wholley and Coppinger before. It's awesome. It has the look of a lethal state level group (if they train their butts off year round for the next three years). I also want to highlight Jack Easterhouse who made the very difficult decision to go all in about 1.5 into the race. We asked for people to go all in on that long straightaway and practice being toughest at the toughest moments. We need to keep making reaches like that otherwise we are just staying safe. We also learned the importance of knowing the race course as Atzman lost a couple places in the final 150 meters as a result of missing the turn. It's a reminder that we need to have an attention to detail.

In the varsity race, we saw Evan Deimling put together a better race this week. He was frustrated with his finale 800 but he made race plan adjustments from last week and will continue to improve. We are all works in progress and want to learn every week. We don't do that by doing the same thing over and over again. Will Kupczyk followed close behind and continues to be a strong leader for us. In the open race, Nick Charles took another step forward this week and continues to improve. He had the look of conviction that we saw last week again and it is starting to pay off. Jakob Pikul made some movement this week and earned a spot in the sophomore race at Peoria. Zee Ebert continues to improve but most of all, what he brings to the team is energy, enthusiasm and care. I'd like to point out the crew of Tineh, Marquardt, Rice, Bazan and Giblin who came out to support the team even though they weren't running. That team love has always been our greatest strength and fueled our purpose.

Related to team passion, one thing I definitely think we could improve is our final straightaway. I never want anyone saving energy for the last 200 meters, so that's not what I mean. Everyone is hurting with 200 meters to go. It's a matter of pride and desire at that point. Sandburg has a reputation for closing. This is simply a degree of passion. And we lost ground consistently in the final :30 of the race. Not everyone, of course, but we didn't look like Sandburg in the last straightaway. We just need to want it more than anyone else.

Those who have a 'why' to love can bear with almost any 'how'.—Victor Frankl

We have a big week ahead as we turn toward Peoria and continue with our season. We need to lead with our "why."

WHAT'S NEXT: Goals for Peoria: Some of the best runners in the state are there. Tear em up and send them home. PR's for everyone. Sub 16:30 Club for F/S and Sub 15:15 Club for juniors/seniors.

Peoria Notre Dame Invitational

Saturday, Sept. 18, 2021

Mid 80s, humid, sunny

COACH'S COMMENTS:

We left Detweiller with a varsity title, some great performances, and an awareness of what we need to do from here. We are having fun and enjoying competing and putting in the time and effort at practices. What we are doing is not easy, but that's a huge part of why it's meaningful and fun. We are certainly focussing on the right things: challenging ourselves internally and our teammates externally, growing as people through this challenge, and creating bonds that will last forever. We still have plenty to experience and plenty of meaningful ways we will challenge ourselves. Fortunately, we've always been better at the end of the season than we've been at PND. What that improvement will take will be the same focus while the external noise will get more chaotic.

PND is on our schedule so that we can be given a test. The meet is there to test you. We seek the best competition, we have some high standards, and we keep the challenges up all season. The question is, how did you respond to the test? Did you let the competitive environment take you out of your race plan or overwhelm your emotional state? Did you use the pressure to fuel your hunger? Were you able to execute the race plan? This is why we do this sport. While we practice, you are training yourself to be comfortable with being uncomfortable. This is a valuable thing, not only for running of course. When you get into a competitive environment in which your composure is challenged, you need to determine your psychological environment. We saw a lot of guys excited about the opportunity. How we responded on Saturday is a great indicator of where we are at psychologically.

The varsity opened up the day by showing that they have the right mentality. They were well aware of the need to open aggressively. They did just that. They still had to fight through the first turn and weren't all in the ideal position, but this is exactly what would happen at a state meet or a national championship as well. You don't win the race in the first 500 meters. Regardless, the group was out well and positioned to achieve their goals for the meet. From the outset, it was apparent that this group was taking command of the race and had serious intent in their eyes. Grant Giblin, Declan Tunney, Brock Rice and-- on their heels--Sean Marquardt and Trent Anderson reported to duty in the first 800. It was still a thick crowd but they were in a strong position. This is where you want to be. Their presence was at the front and they went to work. Giblin particularly had a look in his eyes that he was in attack mode and confident. Tunney continued to do what he has always done: relentlessly fight and be stubborn for his team. It's simply a joy to watch Declan race because he's so dang stubborn and refuses to break. It has established such a confidence. As a coach watching, I am always certain Declan will win the one-on-one battles out there. Brock was great through 1.5 and then let the pace slip a little during phase 3. Marquardt and Anderson were close behind ensuring a strong team showing if we could deal with the heat and fight the last half of the race. I was able to get to the 2.5 for splits and then make it to the finish line in time to see our guys coming in and my jaw dropped when I was Grant Giblin rolling in, closing on 1st place. Sure enough, Declan right on his butt beating out all his one-on-ones in the last 400. Brock rallied and came up strong in the final stretch to be our third guy under 15:00. Of course, all that mattered at this point was how Marquardt and Anderson closed it down. They had an impressive finish in the heat to pass a total of 22 guys between them. Please remember this for championship races. An inspired group taking flight in the last 800 can dramatically change the team score. Our team score went from 107 at the mile to 95 at the 2 mile down to 63 at the finish. What an absolutely tough group of guys. Tineh and Deimling struggled in the thick pack after a fast opening and have valuable experience to work on.

The Sophomore race was up next and we took six freshmen to the line for this one. We planned for a fast opening to gain some sort of position in such a large field, but our opening was a little too fast for our guys. That is my fault and we'll have a better race plan next time. But our three-headed monster of Damian Martinez, Luke Atzman and Matt

Coleman executed like we asked them to and then kept fighting their way to PRs. Damian has been such a solid force for our group this year and we are putting a lot of responsibility on these three guys to lead our underclassmen that lacks a sophomore presence of normal years. One of my favorite parts of the weekend was reading Coleman's entry in the race reflection. This illustrates the mind of a champion. Someone who is passionate and driven to become great:

This might sound weird but lately I've been researching how professionals train for races mentally. For example, Eliud Kipchoge. He's a great marathon runner and his mentality and focus during his races is insane. I've been looking at videos that he's made about his mental preparation. He doesn't think about his competitors, instead he just runs his race, he is confident that his training has him physically capable of the challenges, and he sets a certain goal that he keeps his mind on for the entire race. I used these steps to prepare myself. Throughout the entire week before the race, I couldn't wait to get on that starting line.

Again, Coleman's effort and attention to get himself more ready for a big effort on race day shows the character it takes to be a champion. This mentality over four years equals greatness.

Our final race of the day came around and it was led by Will Kupczyk who has been a powerful figure on our team this year as a leader and a great teammate. He shows up every day with a positive attitude, ready to tackle any challenges thrown his way. We need more guys with Will's passion and determination. He got up toward the front of the race and fought hard throughout to set the table for a 5th place finish for our team in this race. We locked down a bunch of PRs in this race. We need this group to keep working and to continue to bridge the gap so we can create competitive depth and challenge our guys ahead of them. We see the gap so we need to be intent on doing things to close it down. We need to extend to the edge of our capabilities in practice. We need to attempt to train with the top group in order to race with them.

A race expresses who you are. It expresses your character, your hunger, your toughness. It is a miniaturized version of life. You can plan, you can be prepared, but ultimately you don't know how it's going to turn out. Like life, if you are focused on the finish line, you will have missed the significance of each moment of the race. You have hopes, you have twists, turns, thrilling moments and bumps and setbacks. How you respond to those moments ultimately define your true character. So many people let life happen to them; so many people let the race happen to them. So many people have deep doubts and uncertainties about themselves. So many people are afraid and run safe races. My hope is that you find your ability to respond to the unexpected by expressing your true character. My hope is that you risk and believe that you aren't an "also ran," but a game changer. My hope is that you find--in both life and racing--that there is beauty in embracing the unknown in uncertainty. Of course, it would be easier not to try, not to care, not to give more of yourself because then you would guarantee that you wouldn't fail and that you wouldn't be disappointed. But it is in the moments of the unknown that we find meaning. The most comfortable life is not the most meaningful. The most comfortable races are not the ones we find enriching meaning. So embrace the unknown. Embrace risk. Embrace challenge. And knowing you guys, if you act like yourselves in those moments I guarantee you will succeed.

Andrew/Peoria Central/St. Charles N Invationals

Lower 70s, sunny (Thurs), Mid 70s, calm, humid, cloudy (Sat)

COACH'S COMMENTS:

Three different invationals over three days is always a lot of fun. As has been true all season long, as I type this up I am simultaneously proud and excited while also being a little sad that a few more races are behind us. I have been enjoying this season so much and simply don't want it to end ever. It's a reminder to all of you to really embrace each day and get the most out of it. You'll miss this so much when it's over so your best bet is to maximize each day.

I'm not going to go through all of the races individually—that's seven races over three days. Instead, I am going to highlight some inspiring moments and observations from the weekend as a whole.

First of all, as a whole, I am so proud of how this team supports each other and gets excited for one another. It started Thursday when many of the juniors and seniors showed up for the Andrew F/S meet. That continued on Saturday when we had two locations of racing. In both spots, guys were checking in on each other at the other race. I had so many "how are they doing in St. Charles, coach?" and I know the guys in St. Charles had the same curiosities about Peoria. I loved that guys like Trent Anderson showed up early and helped with the St. Charles guys. I loved how we had varsity guys in St. Charles who went to the team huddle for the F/S after their race. This is what makes a great team culture and this is what makes great teams.

At Andrew, our freshmen didn't have a great race, but I did love how Luke Atzman wowed people with his all-in kick 400 meters to go. He could have settled for his position, but was hammering not just in the final straightaway but a minute out. Isiah Sosa had some significant improvement this week and Alex Van Alst continues to drop the gap to the next group on the freshmen team. As we've been saying all season, we love this freshmen group. After Peoria, our F/S is a little hesitant to be aggressive early in the race, but I think we'll get after it at SWSC next Saturday.

I have to highlight Nick Kut who has consistently stepped up for this team in so many ways. He is always willing to help in any way. He'll make sure guys have rides, he'll always clean up, he takes care of our water, and he simply cares. These are the kinds of things that make a team run.

In Peoria, no one felt 100%, and that is what I loved about the team's performance. You don't need things to be perfect or for you to feel perfect in order to perform well. Declan Tunney has been rock solid and I'm more impressed with this performance than two weeks ago. Two weeks ago, we were fired up and ready to roll. This week, we were a little less ready. Reliable teammates can put together a similar performance regardless of how they're feeling. Declan essentially replicated his performance on a day he wasn't at his best. That creates confidence and faith for his teammates. Brock Rice chipped some solid time away from his performance this week and continues to show he's one of the best in state. He's another one who is rock solid for us and has been a phenomenal leader. Sean Marquardt, in the words of Griffin Lehnhardt, has been so inspiring this year. He's full of fire and composure. Trent Anderson continues to bridge the gap and is on the verge of sticking it out with Brock, Declan and Sean. Grant Gibs had a rough day and simply needs to stabilize his performance a bit more so the range of performance is a smaller window. I'm totally confident he'll be back on track soon enough. Perhaps the race of the day went to Ibrahim Tineh who has made a commitment in practice to get up with our powerful five and his race results show it. He's chopped down that gap significantly. I love that he committed to being just off our front group and saw his way through that race. What an improvement!

We've come off invitational season with a sense of belief and purpose. That is powerful. We are powerful.

St. Charles Invitational (by Coach Jonaitis)

In the varsity race, Jackson Fornek got us out in a strong first mile. Jonathon Vales had a great second half of the race and came up with a PR. Arvind Sandhu and Owen Harty were winning battles throughout the race and all the way through the line.

The frosh/soph came back together today after a race at Andrew on Thursday and had a strong team race. Matthew Coleman led the way for the group today. Luke Atzman struggled a bit in the middle of the race but kept fighting and had closed fast to grab some more spots. Jack Easterhouse has been chopping time from week to week and cut off another chunk of time today getting well under 20 minutes. Alex Van Alst is another freshman who was absolutely flying the last stretch of the race. Nate McGee was a madman this week. After cutting 2min off his best at Andrew, he went out and chopped another 2min off his time today! We like seeing all of our frosh/soph guys racing hard throughout each of the phases of the race and achieving these big time drops.

The Open race is highlighted with the return of Tim Kircher. If anyone had an excuse not to run hard throughout the race, it was Tim. He has exactly what we expect all Sandburg runners to have, which is a strong character. Although he was nervous about his first race back, about what could go wrong, he did not back down. He met the challenge head on and even chopped some heads the last straight away. Nick Charles took the group out with a nice fast start like we talked about. Ben Meyer was able to work his way up throughout the race to find his teammate and come through under 1930 to lead the way. Brad Spinella, with a smile on his face as he came off the final turn, crossed in under 20min.

High 40's, Mid 50s, calm, mostly sunny

COACH'S COMMENTS:

What an ideal way to conclude our season of a full squad racing. It's perhaps my favorite day of the season. We get to see the culmination of everyone's season worth of effort and collective energy. This race is a microcosm of what our program is all about. We see the manifestation of our practices leading to improvement. We see why we are pushed on a daily basis. We see why it's so important to be there for each other every day. We see why we focus on character traits throughout the season. We see why we refuse to accept excuses. This day showcases what it means to beat our own self-imposed limitations and be better versions of ourselves. The challenge of the season gets to express itself on this day where we pin point our training to make sure we are ready to showcase the dedication of the season.

And what did we see? We saw guys dropping over two minutes from the Pre-SWSC meet. Many cut more than two minutes. We saw Luke Atzman come in as the second freshman in the SWSC and not only break 18:00 but come close to the 17:00 barrier. What could he do if he commits to the winter, track and summer camp? He could be a SWSC champ next year. He's so fun to watch. We saw the three-headed monster of Atzman-Coleman-Martinez all break 18:00. The three could be a center piece for our program for years to come. We love their character and leadership already. Connor Wholley is someone we are just so impressed with. His passion and dedication shows us someone who is going to succeed at a high level in this sport. He brings his best to this team on a daily basis. Our team is made of 18-20:00 freshmen who are more dedicated than anyone else and over four years they become the best in the state. You don't believe me? Our top three seniors as freshmen at SWSC at Lockport three years ago: Brock Rice—17:42. Sean Marquardt 17:30, Declan Tunney—18:01. It goes on from there. Look at Jack Easterhouse who cut over 5 minutes. Imagine if he runs track and summer camp? Yes, this freshmen group improved significantly and moved up in the team standings from Pre-SWSC from 5th to 3rd. And if they do that over the course of the year, they're dangerous (and exciting). We had so much improvement, that we saw on average over two minutes faster than where we were in August. Jakob Pikul and Alex Van Alst each cut over two and a half minutes of time. This was an inspiring group representing our sophomore level. And here's one more stat for you: the SWSC started in 2005, so we've been running this conference meet for 16 years. We have five more varsity championships than we do sophomore championships. Yes, five more in only 16 years. What does that say about where we go from here with this group? Next up, the varsity knew they would be dominant. I'm not sure if this created a lack of urgency or if this was invigorating. We went to the front like we planned and took control. It's so fun seeing this group roll together. Later in the race, we kind of fell asleep or stopped pressing on the gas. A split over a minute should not be an available outcome for this group. We are too good and too tough to allow that kind of a gap to form. Declan Tunney ran away with the individual title, showcasing his consistency and reliability. He's been a rock for us. Brock Rice has also been totally reliable this season and a pillar holding our team up. He always shows up and gets it done. I know he can commit with Declan in "breakaway" portions of the race. This team is fueled by Brock's strong competitiveness every race. Sean Marquardt ran strong and within himself given his calf soreness and got the job done once again. We need everyone in this group to act like a senior, with the sense of urgency that seniors have because this opportunity will never happen again. So if we go back to being consistent in practice over the next three weeks, I am confident we will bring it together. Finally, the Open race had their turn. I love this race. There is so much energy and passion in this race. That certainly manifested itself in the competition. We had four front runners in the top 6 with Jackson Fornek getting the race rolling early for us, demonstrating our determination to own this race and show our depth of commitment as a program. He was far from alone, Jonathan Vales, Will Kupczyk and Owen Harty were exchanging blows and pushing and pulling each other through various stages of the race. Tim Kircher showed a ton of heart this season and within this race, dipping under 19:00. As has continually been the case, the team was inspired by the enthusiasm and desire of Zee Ebert, who broke 20:00 for the first time ever. His passion was on display once again and he brings so much to this team. Isiah Sosa wasn't running more than a mile when we had pre-SWSC and here he was at 20:30. And look at Nate McGee, who cut nearly six minutes from his Pre-SWSC time. Amazing. This group showed so much heart on the race course on Saturday. It was a perfect way to end our day.

WHAT'S NEXT: IHSA Regional starts at 12:30 for girls, 1:15 for boys, Midlothian Meadows 153rd and Pulaski. IHSA Sectional at Katherine Legge Park in Hinsdale, October 30, 11:00 for girls, noon for boys race. State Meet at Detweiller Park, Peoria Saturday Nov. 6 Race at 2:00. There will be several buses, tba. Keep in tune with @SandburgCC and our website. LET'S KEEP IT GOING! EVERYONE IS A PART OF THIS CHAMPIONSHIP RUN! OUR STRENGTH IS IN OUR ENTHUSIASM FOR EACH OTHER.

NEWS AND NOTES

RUNNER OF THE WEEK: Brock Rice, Jonathan Vales

IHSA Regional @Midlothian Meadows

Saturday, Oct. 23, 2021

57 degrees, mostly sunny, calm

COACH'S COMMENTS:

One thing is 100% clear: our team culture, community and character are what makes us great. The synergy between the group is so apparent. Everyone is so excited for each other and everyone has such high standards for each other. Regionals was a pretty straightforward affair: put in a tight group effort and qualify. We decided ultimately not to race Declan to error on the safe side. It is a reminder that our alternates are not there to spectate. Alternates are not kept around in order to just help with the tent and to have fun on the ride. I made it very clear that we are interchangeable parts and we are all training together to be ready to race. Jonathan Vales put that on display when he stepped up and raced to a big PR. A last minute sub, Vales took advantage of the opportunity by bringing his energy and enthusiasm to the moment. This is the super power all of us wield. Bring energy and enthusiasm to your opportunities and you will be successful. Up front, Brock Rice and Sean Marquardt set the tone for us and executed well. Once again, they had fun while doing something hard with meaningful goals. That's our collective goal for the next two weeks: have fun while doing something hard with meaningful goals. They rolled two new PRs while racing fairly conservatively. Meanwhile, one of the highlights of the race was Grant Giblin responding in the middle of the race after he had been dropped. This was a turning point. There is nothing less enjoyable to watch than a runner who is merely surviving out there. When you get gapped, that lack of focus can certainly come into play. But Gibs responded he rallied back, which is hugely important. We're all going to be in multiple situations over the next two weeks where we will need to rally back in the face of challenging race moments. Trent Anderson had a great comeback race after a tough SWSC. We know we can count on Trent as he's been an incredibly reliable runner over the last few years. We do need to respond better to getting pushed in the forest though. And Ibrahim Tineh had another strong race and has done a great job of bridging his way to our scoring group, this time stepping up in Declan's absence and giving us another low stick. He needs to stay on that gas regardless of how well our other guys are running. Overall, it was such a positive day as we have a pretty low split off of one of the best runners in the state. We are in a great spot and will continue to improve as we round out our training and get sharp.

I wish everyone knew how significant the intangibles are. The atmosphere people contribute to: The energy. The positivity. The confidence. The competitiveness. These were the champions. One thing we can always control is to have a championship spirit. A championship passion. That is controllable. I hope we have championship energy at Katherine Legge on Saturday and Detweiller the following Saturday. Let's continue to always stay in the moment, especially as we enter the last portion of the season. Stay in the moment, whether you are in math class, practice, with family, or within the race. If we do this, we will maximize our abilities and enjoy the journey.

WHAT'S NEXT: IHSA Sectional at Katherine Legge Memorial Park, hosted by Hinsdale Central.

"I was giving up. I would have given up--if a voice hadn't made itself heard in my heart. The voice said, 'I will not die. I refuse it. I will make it through this nightmare. I will beat the odds, as great as they are. I have survived so far, miraculously. Now I will turn miracle in routine. The amazing will be seen every day. I will put in all the hard work necessary'...I discovered at that moment that I have a fierce will to live...Some of us give up on life with only a resigned sigh. Others fight a little, then lose hope. Still others--and I am one of those--never give up. We fight and fight and fight. We fight no matter the cost of battle, the losses we take, the improbability of success. We fight to the very end. It's not a question of courage. It's something constitutional, an inability to let go..."

Runners of the Week: Team

IHSA Sectional @Katherine Legge Memorial Park (Hinsdale)

Saturday, October 30, 2021

55 degrees, very muddy/soggy, calm, mostly sunny

COACH'S COMMENTS:

Before the sectional race on Saturday morning, I felt like I'd been in this position so many times before. I told you all how big of an effort the race was going to be, but I also knew you didn't really know. I told the Neuqua Valley and DGN coaches, "these kids are going to look dead to the world in that finish chute." I also knew we had our focus on the week ahead and our training week was great and set us up for this week and not as much for being sharp on Saturday. What usually happens with this combination? The competition gets close and tough, splits get elongated. I am reminded of 2019 in horrible conditions we finished 8 points ahead of Hinsdale Central and had a 1:06 split. The next week we beat Hinsdale by almost 200 points and had :48 split. I am reminded of 2015 at KLM when we had a 1:00 split at sectionals and the next week it was :33. Sectionals is always a meat grinder. We are training well, the competition is high, the course conditions are usually difficult, and a lot of teams go all in to qualify for state. As it was, we responded really well. The group got out really well and we were destroying teams at the mile mark. We weren't quite ready for the second loop and broke up a bit but what I loved about this is that guys stayed with it. We were getting some passes unexpectedly and we stayed together even though there is no doubt we had a ton of negative feedback. Take a look at Sean Marquardt for example. He started to get passed and struggled with some negative self talk but still hung in. He was only :05 behind Charlie McLawhorn and Gabe Ryan, both all-state caliber runners. It wasn't Sean's best result, but I think it was his most impressive race. Anyone can run well when everything is going perfect. Sean stayed in it and finished it out for the team. Sometimes you just have to do a workman-like job and maximize your day. Declan Tunney expressed what we've seen from him for four years, which is an unwillingness to settle as he went for the win and was leading through 2 miles. Again, he'll finish even stronger next week, but he set the tone for us in this one. Brock Rice has "rock" in his first name and that is exactly what he's been for this team: rock solid and incredibly reliable. Like the rest of our squad, the second loop was tough for Brock but he kept fighting and maintained composure. Brock is going to light it up at Detweiller this week and is clearly one of the top runners in state. Grant Giblin also had the look I love to see in a race. I talked about how it is just plain unenjoyable to watch some people race because they are clearly out there surviving and lack conviction. When we see conviction in someone's eyes, we know it's going to be a good day. Grant had that look and I knew he was going to have a good one. Like Brock, he totally maintained his poise in the second loop after a couple of passes and kept fighting for every spot. Ibrahim Tineh made an awesome commitment early in this race. It was a little too aggressive as he lost too many spots late in the race, including having key Oswego, Hinsdale, and Lyons runners immediately in front of him. I love that he keeps his mission on bridging the gap, we just need to be slightly more conservative early in the race. And Evan Deimling has a tough job of getting his best out of himself when he is gapped from our scoring group. This is not easy. We take pride in everyone maximizing their day and you never know what is going on in a race, so we need Evan to continue to be engaged and attacking. I have no doubt Evan is going to PR this week in Peoria.

So this race was a little tighter than some of you would have liked. We definitely have been able to just kind of go in and dominate people without any real challenges so far. In that regard, this was a really useful experience. No one goes and just dominates challenging races without contention. We will be even more ready for a big effort this week. That does NOT mean we need to think we need to do more than what we're capable of. We are the best team in Illinois. I am so confident in each of you individually. You have the character. No one in Illinois has experience at state. But that's not what you need anyway. You need championship character. We have it. We need to be who we are and race with our best effort. Stay in each moment. We are going to celebrate our journey this week. I am so honored to have been a part of it. The only thing wrong we can do this week is to miss appreciating this season, this team, this journey and the opportunities still ahead. This is no longer a team, it's a family. Love wins. There are lot of things you can feel when you reach big opportunities. One of the things in there is this feeling of love—your teammates, your team, the people you represent, the sport itself, and more. Go to that. Races are celebrations of the relationships you've formed, the team you've built, the fitness you've developed and the love you have. Let's celebrate this amazing 2021 Sandburg team.
